3. Approval of minutes:

a. June 3, 2025 minutes

b. December 16, 2025

Kraig Boynton made a motion to approve the June 3, 2025 and the December 16, 2025 minutes, and Jodi Scott seconded the motion. Motion carried.

4. Working with Elected Officials: Presentation by Laura Calderon, Executive Director, Illinois Public Transit Association

Laura introduced herself and gave some background on her experience – 17 years at present position, a few years at IDOT managing a variety of transit programs, and prior to that was a legislative analyst in the Illinois House of Representatives primarily working on transportation issues.

She spoke about advocacy sometimes being uncomfortable, but everyone at this meeting has the same goal, to keep up with the service demands and advocate for the community of people they serve, who are sometimes invisible to government officials.

She gave an overview of transit funding, including federal funding: 5311 Rural, 5307 Urban, 5339 buses/bus facilities, 5339c Low/no emissions program, and Technical Assistance and Working Development Programs.

State funding includes Downstate Operating Assistance Program (DOAP), which funds 65% of eligible operating expenses, the Downstate Transit Improvement fund, the Downstate Mass Transit Capital Improvement fund, and Transportation Series B Bond Program.

Costs have risen faster than revenue, and there is an impending fiscal cliff where the funds are not meeting the needs of the communities served.

After much advocating and educating, SB2111 was passed in October, and an inter-agency coordinating committee was created which will provide an annual increase of $129 million into Downstate Transportation Fund that should last 10-15 years before another increase is needed. This will increase the reimbursement rate to 80% for rural agencies and 75% for urban agencies.

These changes were brought about by effectively working with government officials. Another transportation reauthorization is coming for federal transit. IIJA expires at the end of FY26.

Advocates should be developing relationships and telling their stories to state legislators, local members of Congress, local elected officials and their staff. They in turn speak to other state and federal legislators. Laura recommends to invite them to your transit agencies and show them what you do so they can see the results of their decisions.

She recommends talking about your system in the news and on social media when you have events and stories to tell. Develop marketing materials so you have something to leave behind when you speak to legislators. Add elected officials to your newsletter mailing lists. It's easier to ask for things when you already have those relationships built.

Kraig Boynton asked if there is any concern about the change in percent affecting call for projects funding. Laura explained that the change in percent should not affect it, but what could make a difference will be that the bill stated some of the monies earmarked for downstate transit systems will have a one-time diversion to inner-city rail that resulted from some give-and-take in the bill in order to get it approved.

Logan County will be joining this HSTP program soon, which will require some possible change among this group's structure. She is in the process of figuring out how to best manage this. Let her know if you have any connections in Logan County.

4. Partners Spotlight: Tazewell and Peoria Counties Special Education Association, Meghan Brake & Allison Borland

Meghan and Allison shared with the group information about their jobs at their respective locations: Meghan at Tazewell-Mason County Special Education Association (TMCSEA) and Allison at Special Education Association of Peoria County (SEAPCO).

They are Transition Specialists and Pre-Employment Career Training (PECT) Specialists, assisting high school aged individuals with disabilities in preparing for graduation and moving out into the world. They are building employment skills, transportation training, hard skills, soft skills, and interviewing skills in hopes that they don't "graduate to the couch" but move into employment, recreation, and leisure, and community college with accommodations as needed.

They connect with local agencies and work with employers to help find employment and rides to and from work so the individuals can be as self-sufficient as possible. Workshops at a Career Summit include opportunities to talk with educators and other parents and learn about career opportunities in six categories including trades and hospitality, similar to a college job fair.

She works on coordinating activities for the independent side and finding transportation. She is having trouble finding drivers.

6. HSTP Coordinator Report

Reema Abi-Akar introduced herself to the group since there were some new faces. She talked about how Tri-County released a combined Call for Projects, which invited applicants to submit requests for funding for urban-specific Section 5310 transit funds.

Tri-County did not receive many submissions, so if someone in the urbanized area has a need, she will see what she can do, even though it is past the deadline, so she can find a way to spend the money that was not applied for.

She said that there is a possibility of an HSTP Urban Subcommittee meeting at the Peoria Main Library. She will send out information.

There will be upcoming surveys for updating the HSTP document; she will be sending those out when they are available. Jodi Scott asked if that will include Logan County. Reema replied that it will. She is still working on getting representatives from Logan County, and the structure of the group may need to be changed to accommodate.

7. Other

a. Next meeting: Tuesday, June 2, 2026

Reema noted that this was a typo; the actual date should be August 4, 2026, at 12:00 p.m. However, Reema will not be available, so the meeting will either be moved to the following Tuesday, August 11, or someone else can serve as chair.

Additionally, the meeting after that, on October 6, coincides with the Illinois Public Transit Association conference (and the equivalent national conference), which is relevant to several individuals in this group. So, the date will be changed for that as well.

Reema noted that the bylaws state there is an option to select a chair and vice-chair, if someone wants to step up in the future.

Joe Coffin had a question about whether using the wheelchair lift safety straps is an IDOT rule or not. There was discussion about which straps he was referring to, and ultimately the answer was that no, the wheelchair lift safety straps are not mandatory. Brittany thinks it also depends on each organization's policies.

Joe also had a question about the size of vehicles that need to undergo a state inspection. His inspector only inspects vehicles that carry more than 11 passengers. Dawn responded that she thinks it depends on whether they have CV plates; if they do have CV plates, they need to be inspected.

8. Adjourn

Reema adjourned the meeting at 1:05 p.m.
